

How to Setup your Local NOG

MENOG 2019 - BoF

Sara Hassan

What is a NOG

The basic idea is to get network operators together to exchange experiences and learn from each other to help raise the quality of the Internet by providing support and opportunities for network operators in the area.

Why you need a NOG

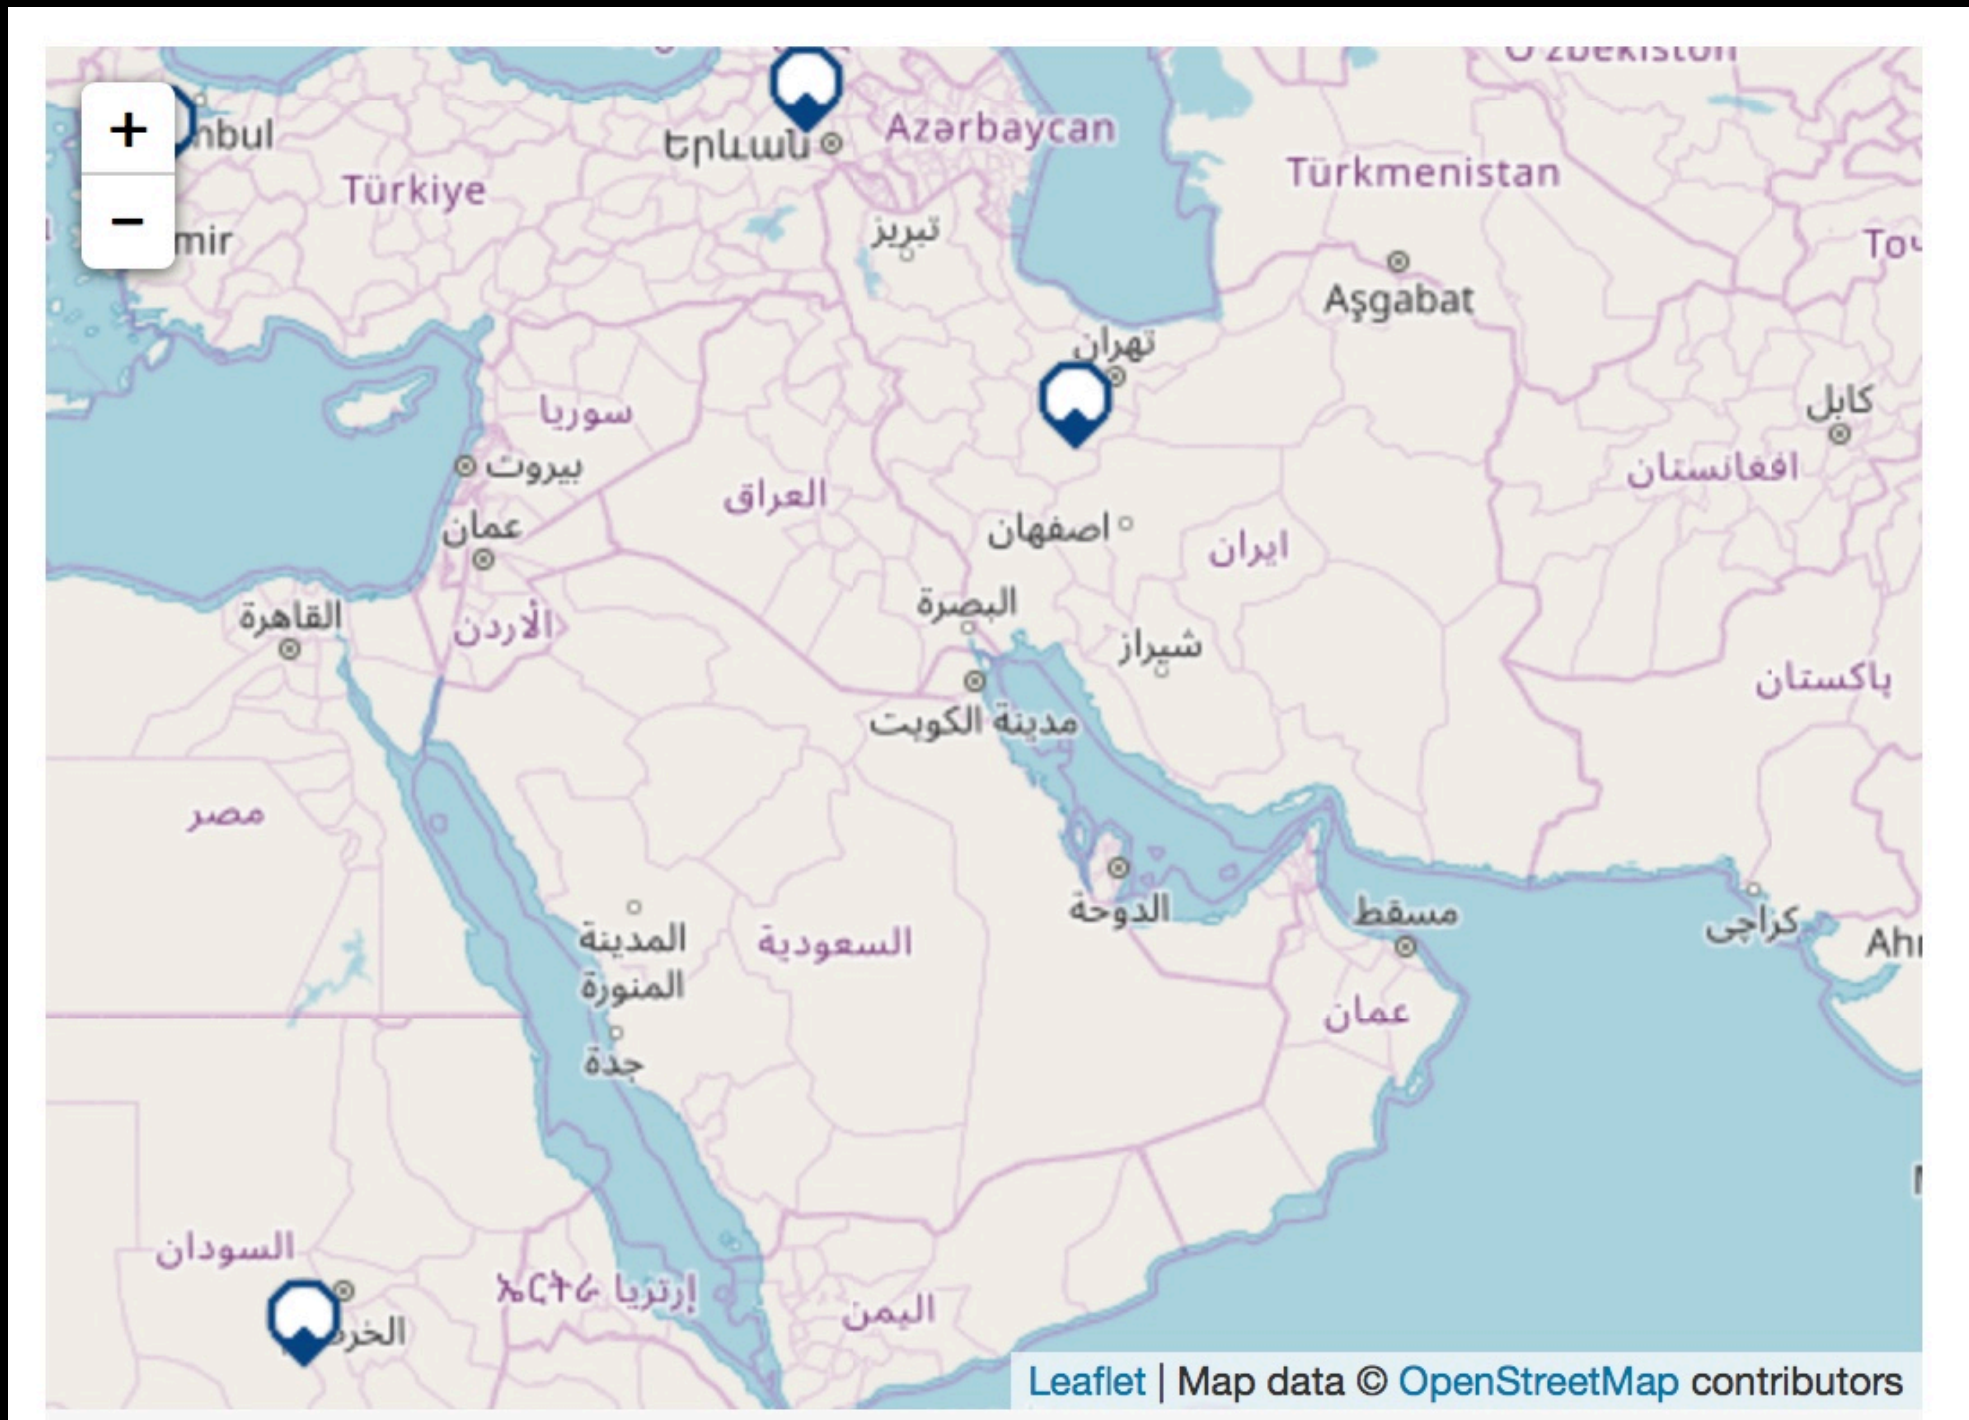

- To bring together the region's network engineers in a functional technical community
- To provide an opportunity for the exchange of information among network operators, engineers, researchers and other professionals close to the network community.
- To enhance the quality of Internet services available in the region by exchanging of technical ideas and information between different companies and organizations.
- To provide Network education, Capacity building and knowledge transfer

What do you need to have a NOG?

First answer these questions:

- Why do you need a local NOG?
- What are the vision and objectives of the group?
- What will be the activities of the group?
- How can you meet these goals?

What do you need to have a NOG?

Then...

- Have an active team (key for success!)
- Define how your NOG will be organised
- Define your communities needs
- Build your tools: mailing list, website, wiki, others.

Please bear with us, as we build the sdnog wiki!

This wiki is being written up by a group of volunteers that are trying hard to improve the networking community in Sudan. And to provide a set of base steps that other NOGs around the world, may want to use, when building and growing their NOG.

If you would like to help, you can sign up here to help us out! Note that although the wiki is open to all, we have a user policy that you will need to adhere to to keep out the spambots.
